No. 07-1389

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO AMEND COMPLAINT

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15(a), Plaintiff requests permission to amend his original complaint, which was filed on December 1, 2006 in the Delaware County Court of Common Pleas and then removed by Defendants to this Honorable Court on April 4, 2007. The proposed amended complaint adds a second count and joins one additional defendant who, in concert with the initially named defendants, engaged in acts of disparagement against Plaintiff in violation of a contractual undertaking by all parties to mutually refrain acts of disparagement. Plaintiff believes, and therefore avers that the new cause of action is not time barred by any applicable statute of limitations and that joinder of the additional defendant does not defeat the existence of diversity jurisdiction. The proposed Amended Complaint is attached hereto using Microsoft's "change tracking" edits for ease in seeing the exact amendments that Plaintiff proposes to make to the original complaint. No other amendments have been requested and no scheduling order has been issued in the case. A proposed form of Order is attached.

Respectfully Submitted,

15. An action for wrongful use of proceedings, known also as Pennsylvania's Dragonetti Act, is described in pertinent part by statute as follows:

§ 8351. Wrongful use of civil proceedings

(a) Elements of action.--A person who takes part in the procurement, initiation or continuation of civil proceedings against another is subject to liability to the other for wrongful use of civil proceedings:

- (2) The proceedings have terminated in favor of the person against whom they are brought.

16. In the case at bar Defendants procured, initiated and continued a civil proceeding against Plaintiff herein.

17. In the case at bar Defendants procuring, initiating and continuing the action against Plaintiff herein Defendants acted grossly and without probable cause in that Defendants adduced no facts of record that demonstrated that the action was initiated with probable cause where they knew that plaintiff had been released from his duties under the employment contract, and were aware that plaintiff was merely complying with a subpoena of the Attorney of New York pursuant to an on-going criminal investigation.

18. Upon, information and belief, Defendants procured, initiated and continued the action against Plaintiff herein Defendants without probable cause for the improper purpose of preventing Plaintiff from testifying to certain Attorneys General regarding Defendants predatory lending practices.

19. As a direct and proximate cause of the Defendants filing an improper civil action Plaintiff has been damaged by agreeing to pay instant counsel a sum in excess of $80,000 in the nature of attorneys fees incurred in defending against the action filed in Chester

County and then defending against the improvident appeals taken in that action all the way to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court,

Deleted: having to pay attorneys fees to defend himself

20. As a direct and proximate cause of the Defendants filing an improper civil action Plaintiff has been damaged by suffering harm to his reputation.

21. The defendants have acted so wantonly and grossly especially with due regard to trying to use a civil action to prevent Plaintiff's testimony, that Plaintiff is entitled to an award of punitive damages to deter such reprehensible conduct in the future.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendants jointly and severally, for an amount in excess of $75,000, exclusive of costs and interest together with an award of pre and post judgment interest and such other relief deemed appropriate by court or jury.

COUNT TWO

Plaintiff v CCB ACS and Rocco Abessinio

Formatted: Bullets and Numbering

22. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges paragraphs 1 through 21 above as if the same were set forth at length herein.

23. The termination of Plaintiff's employment as described above caused Plaintiff to file a wrongful employment termination case against these same defendants said case having been filed in the United States District Court for the State of Delaware said case being filed on January 25, 2002.

24. The parties hereto entered into a settlement agreement of the wrongful termination case said settlement agreement being dated May 21, 2003. [The Settlement Agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit "C" and the Agreement is incorporated herein by reference]

25. In paragraph 11 of the parties' settlement agreement the defendants undertook the explicit duty and obligation to refrain from disparaging Plaintiff in any fashion.

26. Paragraph 11 of the settlement agreement states in pertinent part: "Defendants and those acting at defendants' direction, shall not disparage, either by written or spoken word, Kenneth J. Marino, via any medium whatsoever, including but not limited to, email and communications over the internet, either in their own names or under assumed names, identities or aliases. A violation of this paragraph shall be considered a breach of this Agreement entitling the violating party to equitable relief and attorneys' fees and expenses as more fully set forth in paragraph 15 below. Additionally, violation of this paragraph shall constitute breach of this Agreement requiring the violating party to disgorge any and all benefits received under this Agreement, including but not limited to the Settlement Sum if applicable.

27. Paragraph 15 of the Settlement Agreement requires the violating party to pay all the fees and expenses of counsel for the party who is the victim of any violation of the Agreement.

28. Defendants CCB, ACS and Mr. Abessinio are parties and signatories to the subject matter Settlement Agreement.

29. At all times relevant, the lawsuit filed against Plaintiff as alleged above was filed at the behest and/or direction of Defendant Abessinio and at a point in time after the parties entered into the Settlement Agreement containing the Non Disparagement Clause described above.

30. In paragraph 9 of the Complaint Defendants filed in the Chester County Court of Common Pleas ["Chesco Complaint" Exhibit "A" hereto] the Defendants contended that Plaintiff was a "disruptive" individual.

31. In paragraph 21 through 29 of Chesco Complaint Defendants accused Plaintiff of being an unethical lawyer.

32. As stated above Judge Cody in a Bench Opinion found that Plaintiff acted ethically at all times in discharging his duties as prior counsel for CCB and/or ACS.

33. On page 9 of Judge Cody's Bench Opinion which is attached hereto she made a finding that the predatory lending practices of CCB and/or ACS was an ongoing "fraud".

34. Defendants appealed Judge Cody's ruling to the Pennsylvania Superior Court and to the Pennsylvania State Supreme Court without success and thus Judge Cody's ruling is the "law of the case".

35. In addition to disparaging Plaintiff in the particulars of the Chesco Complaint, on February 27, 2004 Defendant Abessinio provided an Affidavit in connection with legal proceedings taking place in West Virginia wherein Abessinio accused Plaintiff of extorting funds from CCB. [See Exhibit "D" hereto which is incorporated herein by reference]

36. In paragraph 5 of said Affidavit which Plaintiff never saw or heard of until June 17, 2004, which is incorporated herein by reference, Abessinio made the following statement about Plaintiff "In my entire business experience I have never encountered anyone who manifested the level of anger, hostility and total disregard for ethical standards shown by Mr. Marino following his termination".

37. In paragraph 9 of the Affidavit Abessinio claims that Plaintiff “was in breach of his fundamental duties as a lawyer” because Mr. Marino communicated with the New York Attorney Generals Office pursuant to a validly issued subpoena.

38. The Defendants are without any privilege to make the disparaging comments they made in both the Chesco Complaint and the Abessinio Affidavit.

39. Case law provides that the litigation privilege is inapplicable to shield parties who make disparaging remarks when those same parties have contractually undertaken a duty to refrain from making disparaging remarks. See Generally Eichelkraut v Camp 513 SE2d 267 (Ga. App 1999).

40. The legal fees and expenses incurred by instant counsel for Plaintiff in defending against the Chesco Complaint up through and including the briefing and oral arguments necessitated by the Defendants improvident appeal of Judge Cody’s ruling stand in excess of $80,000 and are recoverable as damages under the Dragonetti laws as well as provided for in paragraphs 11 and 15 of the subject matter Settlement Agreement.

41. In addition to disparaging Plaintiff as set forth above, the Defendants CCB/ACS are presently engaged in a campaign to thwart Plaintiff’s application to be admitted as a member of the bar of and for the State of North Carolina by suggesting Plaintiff lacks the required fitness and integrity to become a member of that Bar.

42. Plaintiff has incurred additional attorneys fees in defending against CCB/ACS improper attempts to thwart Plaintiff’s admission to the North Carolina Bar.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendants jointly and severally, for an amount in excess of $75,000, exclusive of costs and interest together with an award of pre and post judgment interest and such other relief deemed appropriate by court or jury.

Respectfully submitted,

P R O C E E D I N G S

THE COURT: All right. I have considered carefully everything that has been offered in this case. I know how important it is to all of the parties. I wish that what I decided today would settle some things, but it sounds as though that's not to be. I would encourage the parties to really take a look at what you are doing and see if whether or not after today you can try to put all of this to rest and go on with your lives and get on to something more meaningful, but that's beside the point.

My job today is to consider the evidence that was offered, to find facts and to apply the law to those facts and reach conclusions as to whether or not the plaintiffs have met their burden of proof and should prevail on the issues that I have to decide. If they do not meet their burden of proof, then, of course, the verdict must be for the defendants.

So taking the counts a bit out of order, and I'm going to address first Count 2 of the complaint, which deals with the allegation of a breach of contract, I make the following findings

1 of facts and conclusions of law:

2 There was a valid contract entered into 3 between the parties on September 11th, 2000.
4 That was an employment agreement. It contained a 5 confidentiality clause.

6 Approximately four months later, the 7 defendant, Mr. Marino, was terminated from his 8 employment and escorted from the building of the 9 plaintiffs'. Litigation ensued over this 10 termination. That was in the Delaware courts.
11 The matter was litigated apparently somewhat, but 12 didn't go to trial, and was settled by way of a 13 detailed agreement, which was Exhibit D-1.

14 D-1 resolved the dispute that was between 15 the parties at that time and included detailed 16 mutual releases, including a release which 17 extinguished the employment contract and any 18 future claims arising under it. And I refer 19 specifically to paragraph three, where the 20 plaintiffs in this case released the defendant in 21 this case and discharged Mr. Marino from all 22 future claims, damages, causes of actions of any 23 nature relating to the employment agreement.

24 Accordingly, there cannot be any damages

1 awarded to plaintiffs for any alleged violation
2 of the confidentiality provision of that contract 3 because the contract was extinguished by the 4 settlement in the wrongful termination suit. On 5 the contract count, I found in favor of the 6 defendant and against the plaintiffs in no 7 amount.

8 The count charging a breach of fiduciary 9 duty, generally an attorney owes his client the 10 duty of confidentiality. The plaintiffs alleged 11 here that the defendant breached that duty of 12 confidentiality by two disclosures: One to the 13 Attorney General of New York by way of an 14 affidavit which was generated sometime -- I
15 believe it was September of 2003. The other way 16 that the plaintiffs alleged that the defendant
17 violated the fiduciary duty of confidentiality 18 was by filing a lawsuit. I can't recall if that 19 was in Delaware Chancery Court or U.S. District
20 Court in Delaware, but at any rate, a lawsuit
21 against a law firm, Richards, Layton & Finger, 22 and an attorney, Mr. Herrmann. Mr. Herrmann was 23 a member of the board of directors of the 24 plaintiffs' bank and/or credit card company, and

1 he worked for the law firm of Richards, Layton &
2 Finger.

3 The plaintiffs point out that this 4 lawsuit really was involved with the activities 5 of the bank and the credit card company. It was 6 not a separate individual case having no
7 connection with the bank or the credit card 8 company. And while the defendants dispute that, 9 I find that the plaintiffs are correct, in that 10 this was all involved with things that had gone 11 on between the parties because of their 12 connection with and employment with the bank and 13 credit card company.

14 The affidavit to the Attorney General of 15 New York by Mr. Marino was done after Mr. Marino
16 had initiated contact with the Attorney General
17 of New York because there was already ongoing 18 litigation by the Attorney General against the 19 plaintiffs in this case. Before the affidavit
20 was issued, the Attorney General of New York
21 issued a subpoena compelling Mr. Marino's
22 appearance for a deposition regarding the ongoing
23 allegations by the Attorney General of New York 24 against the bank and credit card company. He,

1 Mr. Marino, was given the option to submit an 2 affidavit rather than appear for the deposition.
3 Although the technical provisions of 4 domesticating that subpoena to wherever it was 5 that Mr. Marino resided or worked -- I can't 6 remember if it was Pennsylvania or Delaware, but 7 clearly it was not New York, but those 8 domestication processes did not occur. However, 9 I find that to be insignificant in this case.

10 Certainly had Mr. Marino demanded that 11 the Attorney General go to that time and expense, 12 that could have been done, but at any rate, it 13 was clear that there was a subpoena issued by a 14 governmental agency, which is dedicated to making 15 sure that banks and credit card companies comply 16 with the law, and the affidavit was in response 17 to that.

18 The plaintiffs in this case do not allege 19 that the defendant revealed any trade secrets or 20 information of that nature which might give a 21 competitor an unfair advantage in the ordinary 22 course of business. The plaintiffs do not allege 23 that the defendant gave false information to the 24 Attorney General of New York or included

1 information in the lawsuit against the law firm 2 and Mr. Herrmann.

3 The plaintiffs allege that the defendant
4 revealed information relating to predatory
5 lending practices and other illegal activities 6 which caused financial harm to thousands of the 7 bank and credit card customers. The plaintiffs 8 claim that that information must remain 9 confidential and that no one should be able to 10 give that information to the authorities.

11 We consider the Rules of Professional
12 Conduct for Delaware attorneys, and those rules, 13 specifically 1.6, provide that lawyers shall not 14 reveal information relating to representation of 15 a client without the client's consent except in 16 certain circumstances.

17 In first considering the affidavit of Mr.
18 Marino to the Attorney General in New York, I 19 have considered specifically Rule 1.6 (b)(3) and 20 (b)(6) and find that those exceptions apply.

21 With regard to the information that 22 exists in the lawsuit against RL&F and Herrmann, 23 I looked to exception (b)(5), and I find that 24 those exceptions apply. Because they are

1 exceptions, there is no requirement that the 2 attorney get the consent of the client in 3 revealing information in those circumstances.

4 I recognize that the Rules of 5 Professional Conduct do not fully answer
6 questions regarding the breach of fiduciary duty, 7 which is a common law tort action, but I find 8 them to be helpful, and I do find them to be 9 consistent with common law.

10 I find that it is against public policy 11 to require a lawyer who is involved in 12 representing a client while the client ignores 13 the lawyer's advice and perpetrates ongoing fraud 14 and other crimes, it is against public policy to 15 require that lawyer to remain silent. That would 16 require the lawyer to become a coconspirator in 17 the crimes, and that is against public policy.

18 Also, public policy would not support a 19 law that would require that any client can do any 20 wrong to an attorney, and the attorney cannot 21 seek redress in a court of law because of the 22 attorney-client privilege. It is a privilege.
23 It is not a way to evade responsibility for 24 ongoing wrongdoing.

1 It is a separate matter to have an 2 attorney-client privilege where someone is 3 accused of a crime and afterwards, after an 4 arrest, goes to an attorney and has to have that 5 type of privilege in order to get advice and that 6 sort of thing. I find this to be an entirely 7 different matter because of the ongoing nature of 8 it and the fact that the attorney, as general 9 counsel to the plaintiffs, was involved in the 10 ongoing practices of the business. To require 11 him to remain silent, as I said, would require 12 him to become a coconspirator in those 13 activities.

14 For the reasons I've stated, I find that 15 there was no breach of fiduciary duty and 16 certainly there are no damages suffered by 17 plaintiffs as a result of what was revealed.

18 When I looked to the request for an 19 injunction, I recognized that there was an 20 injunction issued after a conference between the 21 Court and the attorneys and by agreement, after 22 that conference, an injunction was issued on May 23 18th, 2004. I find that that is not a proper 24 injunction and it is hereby dissolved. There is 1 no attorney-client privilege that has been 2 violated, and there is no attorney-client 3 privilege that I have any evidence anyone is 4 intending to violate in the future.

5 I want to make it very clear to the 6 parties that I find that Mr. Marino is not 7 precluded from answering inquiries by any other 8 law enforcement agencies or Attorneys General in 9 any other state in the nation. That is my 10 specific finding after having heard all of the 11 testimony and litigated that particular issue.

12 So I do not find that there is any 13 attorney-client privilege that applies there. I 14 am dissolving that injunction. There is no 15 requirement that Mr. Marino notify you before he 16 tells people what he knows about the ongoing 17 activities of the bank. You are on notice from 18 this that he may do that, and he is not required 19 to give you any further notice whatsoever if 20 anyone from law enforcement calls and asks what 21 he knows about this. I just want to make sure 22 that it is very clear, so that this is not 23 litigated over and over and over.

24 I also want to make it very clear,

1 because I have some concern that perhaps my 2 injunction, which required notice, gave other 3 courts pause in thinking that it was my 4 impression that an attorney-client privilege 5 existed, I had not determined that point at the 6 time I issued that injunction. I issued that 7 injunction with agreement of the parties on a 8 temporary basis until full litigation. Now that 9 I have done that, I just want to make it clear 10 that I do not find that it applies. I do not 11 find that there has been any violation 12 whatsoever.

13 I believe that that concludes this 14 matter. In summary, I find in favor of the 15 defendant and against the plaintiffs on all 16 counts.

17 Thank you.

18 MR. CAPRARA: Your Honor --

19 MR. GIBSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 MR. CAPRARA: -- may I ask that you 21 continue the injunction for 30 days to give us an 22 opportunity to seek an emergency appeal?

23 THE COURT: No, sir. It is dissolved 24 immediately.

(Proceedings concluded at 12:10 p.m.)

VERDICT

AND NOW, this th24 day of August, 2005, following trial of the above-captioned matter by the undersigned, sitting without a jury, we find in favor of Defendant and against Plaintiffs on all counts. Plaintiffs' Complaint is DISMISSED with prejudice.

It is further ORDERED that the injunction entered by agreement of the parties after conference with the Court on May 17, 2004, is hereby VACATED.¹

BY THE COURT:

J.

¹ At trial in the above-captioned matter, the parties specifically and thoroughly litigated the issue of whether the attorney-client privilege precludes Mr. Marino from disclosing information regarding predatory lending practices and other illegal activities of Plaintiffs with attorneys general of various states, or other law enforcement officials. We specifically find that the attorney-client privilege does not apply and does not preclude Mr. Marino from answering inquiries or testifying at the request of attorneys general regarding information acquired by Mr. Marino during his employment as general counsel to Plaintiffs.

Additional findings of fact and conclusions of law supporting this verdict were entered on the record in open court, immediately following trial of the above-captioned matter.

The parties acknowledge that the consideration paid and action taken as specified in Paragraph 6 of this Agreement are intended to, and do, release and forever discharge the parties from any and all claims by them in regard to such unknown or future damages, injuries or complications, including effects or consequences thereof regardless of mistake of law or fact. The parties hereby waive any right to assert against each other in the future any claim not known or suspected even though, if such claims were known, such knowledge would materially affect the terms of this Agreement.

AFFIDAVIT OF ROCCO A. ABESSINIO

I, Rocco Abessinio, having been duly sworn, state as follows:

1. I am over 18 years of age and am competent to testify regarding the matters in this Declaration.
2. I am Chairman of the Board of both Cross Country Bank ("CCB") and Applied Card Systems, Inc. ("ACS") (hereafter, together, "CCB"). I am authorized to make this Affidavit, and the facts set forth herein are based upon my personal knowledge.
3. From in or about late 1998 or early 1999 through September 30, 2000, while he was a lawyer at Blank, Rome, Comisky & McCauley ("Blank Rome"), Kenneth J. Marino, Esq. provided legal services to CCB primarily in connection with consumer compliance issues. During this period, Mr. Marino provided no non-legal services to CCB concerning litigation matters and provided no non-legal advice to CCB.

4. From October 1, 2000 through his termination for cause by CCB, effective February 14, 2001, Mr. Marino served as Executive Vice President and General Counsel to CCB. As Executive Vice President and General Counsel, Mr. Marino was CCB's chief legal officer, responsible for obtaining information from me and other officers and employees of CCB and advising CCB concerning their obligations under federal and state consumer credit, banking and other laws, performing legal work concerning securitizations and overseeing CCB's litigation. Mr. Marino was hired to ensure the efficient delivery of outside legal services, provide legal expertise concerning the interplay of consumer lending laws and regulations (e.g., Federal Reserve Board Regulations B and Z, state consumer lending laws) to CCB's offerings and products and to oversee, direct and manage litigation facing CCB. Mr. Marino was not expected or requested to provide non-legal advice to CCB.

5. CCB terminated Mr. Marino for cause, effective February 14, 2001. Mr. Marino's termination was not a result of any concerns or complaints of Mr. Marino about the regulatory and legal compliance of CCB. Shortly following his termination, Mr. Marino brought a wrongful termination lawsuit against CCB and, during the course of the ensuing proceedings, made repeated threats against CCB and me personally in an effort to extort payments from CCB. In my entire business experience, I have never encountered anyone who manifested the level of anger, hostility and total disregard for ethical standards shown by Mr. Marino following his termination.

6. Mr. Marino's lawsuit was ultimately settled by payment of a fraction of the amount demanded by Mr. Marino.

7. I have reviewed Mr. Marino's affidavit, dated September 4, 2003. Until the affidavit was filed by the State of Minnesota in a case in that state, I was unaware, and to the best of my knowledge, CCB's other employees and representatives were unaware, that Mr. Marino was in contact with the State of New York, that the State of New York had sent a subpoena to Mr. Marino, or that Mr. Marino had executed an affidavit.

8. CCB considers any and all information about CCB that they provided to Mr. Marino or that Mr. Marino obtained during the course of his representation (both while Mr. Marino was at Blank Rome and while he was employed by CCB) to be confidential information protected by the attorney-client privilege. CCB has not waived the attorney-client privilege or authorized Mr. Marino to waive the privilege on its behalf.

9. CCB believes that it should not be placed in the position of having to respond to statements about privileged matters made by their former counsel. CCB intends to respond in any proceeding on the legal and factual merits and believes there should be, and is, no requirement that CCB refute improper statements made by former counsel in breach of his fundamental duties as a lawyer. Suffice it to say that Mr. Marino's affidavit presents a false and distorted picture of CCB, my statements and actions, Mr. Marino's conduct, and communications between Mr. Marino and me. Mr. Marino's affidavit should be disregarded.

10. I have never instructed any executives or other employees of ACS or CCB to disregard or fail to comply with any applicable federal or state law that applies to ACS or CCB. CCB and ACS attempt to comply with all applicable laws, and I expect and require all officers and employees to comply with all applicable laws at all times.
